CAMPAIGN AGAINST HYPHEN IS OPENED

Three-Part Constructive Program Being Developed By U. S. Education Bureau.

Augmenting President Wilson's dec laration that America's foreign-born residents must be de-hyphenated, the United States Bureau of Education today announced the beginning of a vigorous country-wide de-hyphenating

A three-part constructive program is being developed by the bureau, with the following features:

the following features:

The insuring that newly arrived immigrant children are immediately placed in the public schools and not sent into factories and mills.

The promotion of the naturalization of alien residents of the United States.

The teaching of English to all foreignborn residents of this country who cannot read and speak that language.

The first step, that of seeing that born residents of this country who cannot read and speak that language.

The first step, that of seeing that newly arrived immigrant children are placed in achools, is now being carried out through co-operation between the various school officials of the country and the immigration officials at the ports of entry.

When a group of immigrants arrive, the inspectors at 'be port learn to what localities the individual families with children are going. Then they send to the proper authorities the names of the children they can expect. These officials then make strenuous efforts to prevent any evasion of the compulsory education laws by getting the children into schools as soon as they arrive.

In addition, the school authorities are also actively engaged in "recruiting" work among the fathers of these same children to induce them to take out naturalization papers.

A first edition of 50,000 bright-colored posters, setting forth in seven languages the advantages of becoming a citizen, have been published. The bureau is sending these posters to 25,000 postmasters and 8,000 school officials.

Educational authorities are also following up this printed appeal with personal talks to immigrants. A series of receptions is being planned at which both Government officials and naturalized immigrants will talk to these men.

UTILITY BODY BLAMES OLD DOMINION LINE

Holds Company Could Improve Conditions at 36th and M Streets Northwest.

Following consideration of complaints regarding the service furnished by the Washington and Old Dominion Railway Company to and from the terminal at Thirty-sixth and M streets northwest, the Public Utilities Commission today decided to inform the company that it does not appear that the terminal prevents the operating of the proper number of cars to take care of the daily variation in traffic.

The commission decided that the complaint that there is an uneven distribution of passengers on the trains is one which appears to be easy of correction. Orders were issued directing that the railway reply on or before November 1. The commission decided to hold a formal public hearing on November 1 at 10 o'clock, to consider the application of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, whereby the corporation would have the telephone service restricted to the subscriber and the agents and representatives of the subscriber. Baseball Fans Will See Entire World Series Games in Pictures

Motion pictures are to make it out the country to see the world series games between the Boston Red sox and the Philadelphia National League team-whether the teams go on tour of the country or not.

This is the first time that pictures of entire baseball games have ever been made, and these have been made as an experiment. The world series games of the past have been pictures only in spots for the motion picture theaters, with views of the various teams, the managers, the crowds, etc. In fact, there has never been a picture made and exhibited of an entire baseball game, and certainly none of a series of and certainly none of a series of games.

The film that has been made this time is complete, and required the efforts of a corps of camera men. The games will be shown in infinite detail, without the tiresome waits that take place at the actual games. There have been five reels of film made, one for each game. Every play and interesting incidents of each game are shown, together with close-up views of the better-known batters as they come to the plate. The second reel, showing the second game of the series at Philadelphis, will also show President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt. Likewise, it will show Ty Cobb as a newspaper man, reporting the series, and a number of interesting views of the Philadelphia park, with its short right field. It is the purpose of the World Series Film Company, which made the film, to exhibit ut in all sections of the country. The baseball fan of the smallest village will thus have opportunity to view the big games between the otg league champions. The pictures will probably be released for general exhibition during the course of the next month.

Sidney Rothapfel, of Minneapolis and New York, who is to be the guest of honor at a banquet the Mutual Film Corporation is planning to give at the Raleigh Hotel next Friday evening to local exhibitors, is perhaps to the exhibition of motion pictures what David W. Griffith is to the producing end. While it was in a small town in Pennayivania that Mr. Rothapfel made his start as an exhibitor, it was in Minneapolis that he developed his real ability.

From time to time in the columns of the Times there have been many suggestions made to exhibitors as to the best way to attract and keep public patronage. These suggestions were all based on the success that Mr. Rothapfel made at the Shubert Theater in Minneapolis.

With a quick realization of exactly what the exhibition of pictures meant, with no precedents upon which to base his action and nothing but a sound, common sense theory of what the public needs to sustain him. Mr. Rothapfel had the courage to make radical departures from the then recognized methods of exhibition and to carve out a new business for himself. He has had few imitators because each exhibitor seems to be imbued with the theory that his theater is a separate and distinct problem from any other theater. This is true so far as it relates to the peculiar wants of his own clientele. But that is exactly what most exhibitors give no consideration whatever, and that is exactly what forms the basis of Mr. Rothapfel's success. Minneapolis, in size, in spirit, and in many other ways, is like Washington. What he did in Minneapolis can be done in Washington. And that is why Mr. Rothapfel is coming to Washington to talk about it.

There are not many people who have seen him as the part of the handsome hero in film plays who would believe that in reality Richard 1. Travers is a very sedate professional man, and just before he became a matinee idol was trying to make a name for himself as a family physician. Travers has had a rather varied career, although the adventure that has been crowded into his life never for a minute turned his mind from the fact that he wanted ture that has been crowded into his life never for a minute turned his mind from the fact that he wanted to establish a hig practice as a physician and drive around New York or Chicago in a limousine car with a chauffeur and footman.

Travers is a native of Canada, where his father was an employe of the Hudson Bay Company. He grew up and the great woods of northern Canada, and then went to New York, where he studied medicine, was graduated, and started building up a grastice.

When the Boer war started Travers went to South Africa and fought with the English army. Returning to the United States after the war, he found his medical practice gene, and secured a position with a stock company, playing small parts. From this he naturally graduated to motion pictures, playing first with the Lubin and then with the Essanay Company, with which he has become known throughout the country as a leading man.

Travers still treasures his diploma and his medical library, however, and he is always on the job when anyone is injured during picture making stunts at the Essanay Chicago studies.
